31st Annual update seminar

With special guests Michael Tigar and Barbara Bergman

Michael Tigar is a Research Professor of Law at Washington College of Law, American University, Washington, D.C., Visiting Professor of Law at Duke Law School, and Professeur Invité at the Faculté de droit, Université Paul Cezanne, Aix-en-Provence. He has also held full-time academic positions at UCLA and The University of Texas. He has been a lecturer at dozens of law schools and bar associations in the United States, Europe, Africa, and Latin America. He is a 1966 graduate of Boalt Hall, University of California, Berkeley, where he was first in his class, Editor-in-Chief of the law review and Order of the Coif.

He has authored or co-authored eleven books, three plays, and scores of articles and essays. He has argued seven cases in the United States Supreme Court, about one hundred federal appeals, and has tried cases in all parts of the country in state and federal courts. His latest book is Thinking About Terrorism. His clients have included Angela Davis, H. Rap Brown, John Connally, Kay Bailey Hutchison, the Washington Post, Fantasy Films, Terry Nichols, Allen Ginsberg, Leonard Peltier, Fernando Chavez and Lynne Stewart. He has been Chair of the 60,000 member Section of Litigation of the American Bar Association, and Chair of the Board of Directors of the Texas Resource Center for Capital Litigation.

In his teaching, he has worked with law students in clinical programs where students are counsel or law clerks in significant human rights litigation. He has made several trips to South Africa, working with organizations of African lawyers engaged in the struggle to end apartheid, and after the release of Nelson Mandela from prison, to lecture on human rights issues and to advise the African National Congress on issues in drafting a new constitution, of Mr. Tigar's career, Justice William J. Brennan has written that his "tireless striving for justice stretches his arms towards perfection."

In 1999, the California Attorneys for Criminal Justice held a ballot for "Lawyer of the Century." Mr. Tigar was third in the balloting, behind Clarence Darrow and Thurgood Marshall. In 2003, the Texas Civil Rights Project named its new building in Austin, Texas, the "Michael Tigar Human Rights Center."

Barbara Bergman is a professor of law at the University of New Mexico School of Law where she teaches courses on evidence, trial practice, criminal law, and criminal procedure. Before turning to teaching fulltime in 1987, Barbara was a staff attorney at the Public Defender Service in Washington, D.C. From 1999 to 2004, Barbara was on the defense team in Terry Nichols' capital case in state court in Oklahoma. She has served on the faculty at the National Criminal Defense College, the Death Penalty College at Santa Clara, and the CAPTAP program in Plano, Texas. She is also the co-author of the Every Trial Criminal Defense Resource Book as well as the fifteenth edition of Wharton's Criminal Evidence and the fourteenth edition of Wharton's Criminal Procedure. She is a past-president of the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers ("NACDL") and is a co-chair of the NACDL Amicus Committee. In her capacity as co-chair of that committee, this year she has overseen the filing of NACDL amicus briefs in Kennedy v. Louisiana and Indiana v. Edwards as well as a number of other cases in the U.S. Supreme Court.
